

Physical Educators Pass Resolutions Calling for Revival of Old Spartan System of Control of the Youth

PHYSICAL LEADERS APPEAL TO STATE

Want Government Supervision and Responsibility for Fitness of Our Youth.

PASS RESOLUTIONS HERE

Ask Federal Appropriations and Early Start in the Schools.

Let the State be responsible for the physical development and education of our boys and girls. This demand for a return to the old Spartan system was embodied in a set of resolutions passed at the annual meeting of the Physical Research Society at the Hotel Astor yesterday. Physical educators from all sections of the United States took part in the discussion and at the end the resolutions were adopted unanimously.

The resolutions were introduced at the morning session by Dr. Thomas A. Storey of the College of the City of New York, State Inspector of Physical Education, and Dr. C. W. Savage of Oberlin. In recognition of the dominant importance of the question the programme committee rearranged the business of the meeting in order to give the greatest opportunity for discussion.

The resolutions adopted ask Federal and State appropriations for, and supervision of physical education, and propose that after June, 1922, or some other date to be fixed, only men and women who have qualified through a recognized course in physical education be appointed to teach in the schools.

The educators, of whom there were more than one hundred, agreed that the war had demonstrated the great need for physically fit men, and that the start and to make it in the right way the better. It was agreed that it behooved the elementary schools to make that start and to make it in the right way the better. It was agreed that it behooved the elementary schools to make that start and to make it in the right way the better.

The resolutions adopted were as follows: First—That this society shall make every reasonable effort to influence the Congress of the United States and the Legislatures of our various States to enact laws providing for the effective physical education of all children of all ages in our elementary and secondary schools, public, institutional and private.

Second—That this association shall maintain a committee of health and physical education in all the States of the United States to make it their effective rule that after June 1, 1922, or some other date to be fixed, no applicant may receive a license to teach any subject in any school who does not first present credible evidence of a satisfactory course in physical education in a reputable training school for teachers.

TAYLOR BEATEN IN EASTERN TOURNEY

Junior Champion Falls Before
Speed and Skill of H. B.
Kaltenbach.

A new aspirant for junior honors loomed up yesterday in the national indoor championship for youngsters on the board courts of the Seventh Regiment Armory. He is H. B. Kaltenbach, Jr., a Princeton student, who formerly represented Yonkers High School. He sprang the biggest surprise of the season by eliminating Harold L. Taylor of Brooklyn Prep, the national junior champion on turf courts, by 6-3, 8-6. Kaltenbach's noted victory came in the third round of the junior singles.

The match was the most exciting of the tournament and the best, considering the age of the contestants, seen on a local court in many months. Kaltenbach executed the most dazzling shots yet performed by a youngster. So well did he serve and so accurate was his shot that Taylor had to be content with the match without making a default.

The elimination of Taylor, who was considered a strong contender for the junior title, caused much excitement among the spectators and competitors. However, there was little doubt in the minds of those who witnessed the match that Kaltenbach was Taylor's superior. Kaltenbach, who is a resident of Yonkers and learned the game on the courts of Yonkers High School, the Brooklyn boy had little or no chance to place his shot. The Yonkers lad kept his rival on the jump throughout the contest.

Taylor Lacks Punch.

In the first set Taylor lobbed five times in succession, with Kaltenbach running back to the base line and smashing each one in the chest. Taylor had a lead of 5 to 2 in games and 40 to 20 in points, but lacked the necessary punch which would have brought him victory. This handicap, however, did not seem to stop the Yonkers lad, who smashed his way to victory after a startling rally at 4-4.

Kaltenbach's play was reminiscent of the net and his services could not be surpassed. The Brooklyn Prep lad very seldom got the ball past him. It was not until near the end of the contest that Taylor was able to display his best form. He then played with some success, but his rally came too late, as the Yonkers lad then had the game well in hand.

The Princeton youth used the overhand style of play to perfection. It was these shots and his running smashes, which appeared impossible for him to get at, that were largely responsible for Taylor's defeat. It was the overhand style of play, which Kaltenbach's surprising victory over Taylor places him in the semi-final round with Vincent H. B. Kaltenbach, Jr., and Frank T. Anderson, who played their third round matches yesterday.

Basford, who represents Scarsdale High School, defeated H. G. Scott of the final by disposing of H. G. Scott in straight sets at 6-1, 6-2. Basford was not forced to do his best, as he won the match in the first set. He is a member of the New York Tennis Club, advanced by defeating Percy L. Kynast of Commercial College in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3. Gerald B. Emerson, the St. John's Academy lad, defeated H. G. Scott in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, in the second round.

Taylor and Richards Win.

In the junior doubles matches two teams worked their way to the semi-finals. The Taylor-Richards combination, which defeated H. B. Kaltenbach, Jr., and Frank T. Anderson, won their match in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3. The Taylor-Richards combination, which defeated H. B. Kaltenbach, Jr., and Frank T. Anderson, won their match in straight sets, 6-0, 6-3.

WILLARD WILLING TO FIGHT DEMPSEY

Champion's Former Sparring Partner.

Special Dispatch to THE SUN.
PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 26.—According to a statement made here to-day by Sergeant Walter Monahan, U. S. A., Fort Oglethorpe, and former sparring partner of Jess Willard, the champion has made up his mind to give Jack Dempsey a fight for the heavyweight title. Monahan boxed with Willard at Fort Worth, Tex., for the last half year, and during that time he was Willard's sparring partner, and after the bout he said to the champion:

"I feel good enough and strong enough to take Jack Dempsey. He has been boxing for you, so let me get a crack at him. Come over to camp occasionally and send me along for a few rounds and I will put a quietus on his challenges."

"No," Willard quickly replied. "Save him for me. Men like Dempsey were especially made for me. If the public wants the boys, some promoter will quickly get the inspiration and we can soon talk business. We must be assured there will be no interference."

When asked as to Willard's physical condition Monahan replied: "You know Jess is a sensible fellow. He is well equipped for the main event, and that is, that we believe, at the bottom of the more widely advertised intercollegiate question. Clean up things internally and provide proper facilities and accommodations at home and the external relationship in sport will take care of itself."

CORNELL AND PENN DIVIDE AT CHESS

Each Wins Two Games in Triangular Tourney.

Cornell and Pennsylvania divided honors in the first round of the twentieth annual tournament of the Triangular Chess League, which was held at the University of Pennsylvania yesterday. Each side scored two games, but the champion Pennsylvania team lost one game to Cornell, which was the only upset of the tournament.

The games at the two top boards were very stubbornly contested, and H. Adeline Cornell, Cornell's top board player, the champion chess player at the Brooklyn Boys High School, had the distinction of lowering the colors of Meyer Schindler, Cornell's top board player, in a four-knight opening, in which Cornell had the white pieces. The game lasted twenty-nine moves.

TOOMBEOLA SCORES AT JEFFERSON PARK

Son of His Majesty Runs Away
From Big Field of Juveniles.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 26.—After half a dozen disappointments Toombeola, the two-year-old son of His Majesty, which formerly carried the colors of Lieut. Gifford A. Under Herold's training he developed stamina as well as speed and in to-day's race made his opponents look cheap.
